

Optimisation of a Ship Wind-Assisted Propulsion System

J. Cairns¹, M. Vezza² and R. Green³

¹ University of Glasgow, Glasgow, United Kingdom, j.cairns.1@research.gla.ac.uk

² University of Glasgow, Glasgow, United Kingdom, marco.vezza@glasgow.ac.uk

³ University of Glasgow, Glasgow, United Kingdom, richard.green@glasgow.ac.uk

Abstract

This project investigates the optimisation of a ship wind-assisted propulsion system, an actively controlled aerofoil mounted vertically on the deck of a ship. CFD focussed optimisation will consider both the aerofoil aerodynamic performance associated with the circulation system and configuration aspects on board a ship deck. Experimental validation is included.